Review: colors, adjectives, wear, hat

● MATERIALS REQUIRED

Warmer: CD of gentle classical music. Ideally this music should be playing quietly from the beginning of the lesson. Five pictures cut from magazines to show people with curly hair, straight hair, a mustache, a beard, etc. (see page T13 Materials required)

Warmer

- Tell students to close their eyes and to put their heads on their desks. Play the CD of gentle music in the background. Say I'm going to describe a picture. I want you to imagine it in your heads. Check comprehension of picture and make sure students know that they just need to listen and think. Describe the first picture on Student's Book page 16, e.g., I can see some water with a lot of boats. The water is quiet and still. The sky is gray and white, but it isn't raining. I can see two big boats. They're orange and red. They aren't moving. They're beautiful. There is a small house next to the water. It's behind a tall tree. There are two people close to the house. I think it's a mother with her daughter. They are looking at the boats.
- Tell students to slowly open their eyes. Ask students how they feel and talk about what they are imagining. Say Today we're going to talk about paintings. Remind them that Grandma Star likes painting.

SB16. ACTIVITY 1. Read, look, and answer.

- Tell students to open their Student's Book to page 16. Focus them on the two pictures. Explain that you were describing the first picture at the beginning of the lesson. Ask if the picture is what they imagined. Ask the following questions about both pictures, to encourage students to talk: Is this an old painting or a new painting? Is it on paper? Do you like it? What can you see? If students respond in L1, recast their responses into English. It is important to get them talking at this stage. Elicit if any students have seen paintings like this.
- Read the sentence and question above picture 1. Ask Who thinks picture 1 is a portrait? (Students raise their hands.) Repeat for picture 2. Focus students on the short text. Read it aloud to the class. Teach/check the words portrait and self-portrait. Elicit what they are in L1. Repeat the questions about the two pictures (picture 2 is a portrait).

SB16. ACTIVITY 2. Look at the self-portraits. Listen and say the letter.

- Review personal descriptions. Stick the pictures of people on the board. Elicit as many sentences as possible about each person (e.g., She has straight hair. She has fair hair. She has blue eyes.). Write them on the board. Make sure you review straight, curly, blue, brown, green (eyes), mustache, and beard. If you don't have any pictures, elicit sentences about students in the class and draw simple pictures of a man with a mustache and a beard.

- Focus students on the five self-portraits in Activity 2. Talk briefly about each one with the class: the colors, the age of the person, hair/eye color, whether the picture is old/modern. Ask a student to read the instructions aloud. Say Remember. Whisper the letter to your friend and point to the painting. Play the CD. Students listen and whisper. Play the CD again. Pause after each one to elicit the letter. Ask if anyone knows the name of any of the artists (a Vigée Le Brun, b Leonardo da Vinci, c Daisy de Villeneuve, d Pablo Picasso, e Vincent Van Gogh).

Key: 1 d, 2 a, 3 e, 4 c, 5 b

CD 1, 22

1. This portrait has a lot of orange and brown colors. The artist has short, straight, brown hair, and he doesn't have a beard.
2. The artist in this portrait has long, curly, fair hair and a big hat.
3. This portrait has a lot of blue and green colors. The artist has short red hair and a red beard and mustache.
4. The artist in this portrait is young. She has long straight hair and big green eyes.
5. This portrait is drawn in red pencil. It isn't colored in. The artist has a long white beard, but he doesn't have a mustache. We can see that the portrait isn't finished.

Pair work

- Demonstrate the game. Focus students on the pictures in Activity 2. Say I'm looking at a self-portrait. Guess. Ask me questions. Give students an example question: Does he have brown eyes? Students take turns asking questions and guessing. They can ask a maximum of five questions. The student who guesses chooses an artist and the class asks him/her questions. Check students use Does he have / Does she have ... ? correctly.
- Students play the game in pairs. Student A secretly writes the letter for the picture in his/her notebook. Student B asks questions to guess. They change roles.

WB16. ACTIVITY 1. Read and write the names.

- Tell students to open their Workbook to page 16. Elicit what they can see (a portrait of a family). They do the activity in pairs. Check with the class.

Key: 1 Tom, 2 Sally, 4 Aunt Clare, 5 Uncle Jack, 6 Daisy

WB16. ACTIVITY 2. Circle the one that doesn't belong.

M toward

- Focus students on Activity 2 and on the first three pictures. Elicit which ones are self-portraits. Say, e.g., So, we have two self-portraits and one that is different. So the third one is the one that doesn't belong. Accept other ideas and reasons from students for the one that doesn't belong. Students work individually. They compare their answers in groups of four. Check with the class. There are several possible options.

Key: 2 First picture: self-portrait. 3 Third picture: an animal.
4 Second picture: self-portrait.

Extra activities: see pages T100–101 (if time)

Ending the lesson

- Review with students what they learned about in today's lesson.

OBJECTIVES: By the end of the lesson, students will have read about portraits, completed a project, and practiced an exam-style listening task.

● TARGET LANGUAGE

Additional language: pet, It's by ..., both

Review: self-portrait, portrait, family, clothes, colors, have, wear, dress, hat, flowers, because

● MATERIALS REQUIRED

Project: A large piece of paper for each student, paints, paintbrushes, water, cloths

Warmer

- Describe a student in the class for the others to guess, e.g., This student has short, dark, straight hair and blue eyes. This student's wearing ... Repeat.

SB17. ACTIVITY 3. Look at the family portraits. Look and find.

- Tell students to open their Student's Book to page 17. Focus on Activity 3. Ask Are these pictures self-portraits? Elicit/ explain that they are family portraits. Ask a student to read the activity instructions and phrases aloud. Check the class understands. Students work in pairs or groups. They look at the pictures and find the people/things as quickly as they can. Groups who finish early make a list of other animals/ things they can see in the pictures. Check with the class.

Key: 1 a, 2 d, 3 c, 4 b

SB17. ACTIVITY 4. Now match the texts with the portraits.

- Students stay in their pairs/groups. They read the texts in their groups, silently or aloud as they choose, and match them with the portraits. Check with the class. Elicit the words that helped them, e.g., a lot of colors / pets. Focus on the phrase It's by ... Practice pronunciation. Say a sentence about one of the pictures. Students say the letter, e.g., It's by Pablo Picasso (d).

Key: 1 c, 2 d, 3 b, 4 a

SB17. PROJECT. Draw your family portrait.

- Focus students on the photographs and the activity instructions. Say Now it's your turn to draw a family portrait. Think about: Who's in it? What are they wearing? Where are they? Are they sitting or standing? Are there any pets in your picture? Are there any other things? Remember – you are in your family portrait!
- Elicit whom students are going to put in their portrait. Students sketch the portrait in their notebooks. Check students' sketches and then hand out the paper, paints, etc. Students paint their family portrait. Monitor and encourage students to talk about what they are painting (describe the people, place, things, etc.).
- Students can write a short description of their family portrait, e.g., This is a portrait of my family. There's my grandfather and grandmother, my mother and father, my two sisters and me. We are in the living room at home. My sisters and my grandparents are sitting on the couch, but I am standing. My parents are behind the couch. My sisters both have long fair hair. They're wearing dresses. My dad has a mustache.

- Students show their finished pictures to a partner. They take turns reading their descriptions aloud.
- When they are dry, display the portraits around the classroom. Encourage students to look at their classmates' work and ask the artists questions about their pictures.

WB17. ACTIVITY 3. MOVERS Listening, Part 5

Listen and color and write. There is one example.

[M] toward

- Tell students to open their Workbook to page 17. Elicit what they can see (family words: grandfather, grandmother, things: camera, comic book, soccer ball, bikes, clothes: pants, skirt, jacket). Ask a student to read the instruction aloud. Check understanding. Explain that there is an example already (point to the man whose hair has been colored gray) and that they will hear the example described first.
- Play the CD. Students don't color or write the first time. They listen and look. Play the CD again. Students put a colored dot on the relevant part of the picture. They check in pairs. Students color the picture and write, or listen again if necessary. Show a completed picture for students to check their answers or elicit the correct colors/words from the class.

Note: In keeping with the Movers listening tests format, the page rubric and audio rubric are different.
